

King County Solid Waste Division announces Best Workplaces for Recycling and Waste Reduction

King County's Solid Waste Division has named FCS GROUP to the third-annual Best Workplaces for Recycling & Waste Reduction, one of 65 organizations to make the list this year. This King County workplace is being recognized for strong internal recycling programs and for their commitment to reducing the amount of waste their company produces.

To qualify as a Best Workplace for Recycling & Waste Reduction, organizations met at least 10 criteria out of a list of 33 good business recycling practices—choices that range from placing recycling bins by every desk, to collecting food scraps for on or off-site composting, to having internal 'green teams' that support the business' programs.

"King County is pleased to see the list of Best Workplaces for Recycling and Waste Reduction continue to grow from year to year," said Sharon Aller, King County program manager for the campaign. "Businesses like FCS GROUP show demonstrate the value of creative approaches to recycling and reducing waste in the workplace – from desks, kitchens and break rooms, to warehouses, fleets and anywhere else where employees generate recyclable materials or can reduce waste."

King County releases the Best Workplaces for Recycling & Waste Reduction list annually. The goal of the list is to recognize the top recyclers and waste reducers, and help motivate others in the local business community to improve recycling and waste practices.
